

Anthilia Capital Partners hires head of Advisory

Italy's independent asset manager Anthilia Capital Partners has hired Gianni Piazzoli as head of Advisory.

The area follows Anthilia's plans to expand its business to the advisory services area, targeting in particular HNWI and corporate clients.

Traditionally aimed at private and institutional clients, Anthilia has launched a series of open-ended funds, as well closed-ended, focusing on alternatives and institutional mandates over the past years.

Piazzoli has some 30 years of experience in the asset management industry, having started in Banca Commerciale Italiana in 1986 as head of Relations to Foreign Investors and Italian Bond research.

After that, he worked as head of Sales at Banca Euromobiliare. He joins Anthilia from Equita Sim, where he has been head of Corporate Broking since 2008.

Giovanni Landi (pictured), senior partner at Anthilia, has hailed Piazzola's hire as a boost to the advisory services business development plans of the company.
